QUINTESSENTIAL CLASSIC

Chicago Athletic Association

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Details of the former club are indulgent: boxing robes in each room, cozy leather armchairs, wood panelling, crown moldings, and original windows looking out onto Michigan Avenue and Millennium Park across the street. The restaurant, The Cherry Circle Room, upholds a sense of grandeur and privacy: a wood-paneled cove, inspired by the club's original restaurant, tucked way in the back of the main floor. But despite its history, this hotel is definitely young: the original billiard room still hosts group games of pool, shuffleboard, and bocce played through the night, as crowds of friends order fresh soft pretzels and local beers. Cindy's cocktail bar on the roof is full of hip guests and locals on any given night. And another (not insignificant) detail: rooms are affordable.
